

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

THOMAS G. VAIL,

Plaintiff,

Case No. 2:12-cv-01148-MMD-CWH

ORDER

CORTEZ-MASTO, et al.,

Defendants.

(Motions to Dismiss – dkt. nos. 4, 5, 20)

I. SUMMARY

Before the Court are the Insurance Defendants' Motion to Dismiss (dkt. no. 4), Defendants Ross Miller, Catherine Cortez Masto, and John Arana's Motion to Dismiss (dkt. no. 5), and Defendant Conrad Hafen's Motion to Dismiss (dkt. no. 20).

II. BACKGROUND

This case involves a lawsuit against various individuals and state agencies for civil conspiracy, violation of due process, and intentional infliction of emotional distress.

Plaintiff Thomas Vail once ran an insurance brokerage firm in Henderson called Anthem Financial Group. He offered certificates of deposit and other investment instruments for sale. In the course of his business, Vail offered his clients certificates of deposit which were not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Commission ("FDIC"). Such offerings are illegal, and Vail was arrested as a result.

Vail and his attorney entered into a plea agreement with then-Chief Deputy Attorney General Conrad Hafen. But after his sentencing, Plaintiff was again arrested for similar behavior.

1 Plaintiff alleges that his arrests and convictions occurred because of Defendants'
 2 false allegations and coercive interview tactics used on alleged victims. The Complaint
 3 alleges that Defendants intentionally conspired to have Plaintiff wrongfully convicted and 4 to cause him to lose his insurance license. Plaintiff filed this 28 U.S.C. § 1983 action
 5 against Defendants, alleging civil conspiracy, violation of due process and intentional
 6 infliction of emotional distress ("IIED").

7 III. MOTION TO DISMISS LEGAL STANDARD

8 On a 12(b)(6) motion, the court must determine "whether the complaint's factual 9 allegations, together with all reasonable inferences, state a plausible claim for relief."
 10 Cafasso, U.S. ex rel. v. Gen. Dynamics C4 Sys., 637 F.3d 1047, 1054 (9th Cir.2011)
 11 (citing Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009)). "A claim has facial plausibility
 12 when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable
 13 inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged." Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678
 14 (citing Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 556 (2007)).

15 When determining the sufficiency of a claim, "[w]e accept factual allegations in the 16 complaint as true and construe the pleadings in the light most favorable to the non-17 moving party[; however, this tenet does not apply to] . . . legal conclusions . . . cast in the 18 form of factual allegations." Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011)
 19 (citation and internal quotation marks omitted). "Therefore, conclusory allegations of law
 20 and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to defeat a motion to dismiss." Id. (citation
 21 and internal quotation marks omitted); see also Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 (quoting Twombly,
 22 550 U.S. at 555) ("A pleading that offers 'labels and conclusions' or 'a formulaic 23 recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not do.'").

24 IV. MILLER, MASTO, AND ARANA'S MOTION TO DISMISS (DKT. NO. 5)

25 A. *Heck v. Humphrey

26 Defendants assert that Plaintiff's claims are barred under Heck v. Humphrey, 512
 27 U.S. 477 (1994). Defendants argue that in essence, Plaintiff alleges that the procedures
 28 leading up to his conviction for securities fraud constitute civil conspiracy. Defendants

1 further argue that because Plaintiff's conviction has not been set aside, reversed, or 2 otherwise invalidated, the Court must dismiss Plaintiff's Complaint under Heck.

3           “The holding in Heck applies . . . where ‘a judgment in favor of the plaintiff would 4 necessarily imply the invalidity of his conviction or sentence.’” Weilburg v. Shapiro, 488
5 F.3d 1202, 1206 (9th Cir. 2007) (citing Heck, 512 U.S. at 487).<sup>1</sup> The Court agrees with 6 Defendants that a judgment in Plaintiff’s favor on the claims asserted against them for 7 civil conspiracy, violation of his due process, and IIED would necessarily imply the 8 invalidity of his sentence. Plaintiff’s central claim is that Defendants conspired to 9 wrongfully convict him, cause him severe emotional distress, and deprive him of due 10 process under the United States Constitution. If Defendants prosecuted Plaintiff for 11 these reasons rather than legitimate reasons, Plaintiff’s sentence could not have been 12 valid. Cf. Hall v. Dir. of Corr., 343 F.3d 976, 981 (9th Cir. 2003) (“[I]t is established that a 13 conviction obtained through use of false evidence, known to be such by representatives 14 of the State, must fall under the Fourteenth Amendment.”).

15 The Court next turns to whether the Heck doctrine applies in this case – where a 16 plaintiff is no longer in custody. On October 23, 2009, a judgment of conviction was 17 entered, reflecting that Plaintiff pled guilty to one felony count of fraudulent sale of 18 securities to a person over 60 years old. He was sentenced to 12 to 30 months, 19 suspended, and placed on 3 years' probation.<sup>2</sup> However, Plaintiff was honorably
20 discharged from probation on August 11, 2011, because his probation was handled
21 improperly. (Dkt. no. 20-1.) Plaintiff did not challenge his conviction during probation.

22 "The writ of habeas corpus is not now and never has been a static, narrow, 23 formalistic remedy; its scope has grown to achieve its grand purpose – the protection of

conviction or sentence has been invalidated. Guerrero v. Gates, 442 F.3d 697, 703 (9th Cir. 2003).

27                   <sup>2</sup>The parties do not inform the Court what day Plaintiff was sentenced to 3 years'
28 probation. On review, it appears as if Plaintiff was sentenced on November 9, 2009.
(Dkt. no. 32-1 at 5.)

1 individuals against erosion of their right to be free from wrongful restraints upon their 2 liberty.” Jones v. Cunningham, 371 U.S. 236, 243 (1963). “While . . . parole releases” a 3 prisoner “from immediate physical imprisonment, it imposes conditions which 4 significantly confine and restrain his freedom . . . .” Id. Because of this, “a prisoner who 5 ha[s] been placed on parole [is] still ‘in custody’ under his unexpired sentence.” Maleng
 6 v. Cook, 490 U.S. 488, 491 (1989) (citing Jones, 371 U.S. at 242-43). Likewise, a 7 plaintiff on probation, like Vail, is “in custody” for the purposes of Heck. Nuno v. Cnty. of 8 San Bernardino, 58 F. Supp. 2d 1127, 1132, n.4 (C.D. Cal. 1999) (citing Arketa v.
 9 Wilson, 373 F.2d 582, 583 (9th Cir. 1967) (state probationer is “in custody” for habeas
 10 purposes); United States v. Span, 75 F.3d 1383, 1386 n. 5 (9th Cir. 1996) (probation 11 establishes custody for purposes of 28 U.S.C. § 2255)).

12 Further, a plaintiff’s failure to timely pursue habeas remedies does not remove his 13 claims from Heck’s purview.<sup>3</sup> Cunningham v. Gates, 312 F.3d 1148, 1154, n.3 (9th Cir.
 14 2002). In Guerrero v. Gates, 442 F.3d 697, 705 (9th Cir. 2003), the court held that 15 plaintiff Guerrero’s claims were Heck-barred. Guerrero brought a § 1983 lawsuit 16 alleging, in relevant part, wrongful arrest, malicious prosecution, and conspiracy. Id. at 17 703. Guerrero did not challenge his convictions before filing his § 1983 lawsuit. Id. at 18 705. The court determined that though habeas relief was “impossible as a matter of 19 law,” Guerrero’s failure to timely pursue his habeas remedies could not be used as a 20 shield against the implications of Heck. Id. Likewise, Vail was on probation for over one 21 year and nine months following his sentencing. He had sufficient time to challenge the 22 terms of his conviction under 28 U.S.C. § 2254, but chose not to. Vail’s claims against 23 Miller, Masto, and Arana relating to the validity of his conviction are therefore Heck- 24 barred, and must be dismissed with prejudice.

25       ///

26
 27       <sup>3</sup>The limited exceptions to Heck, see, e.g. Spencer v. Kemna, 523 U.S. 1, 18 (1998)
 28 (Souter, J., concurring); Nonnette v. Small, 316 F.3d 872, 875-76 (9th Cir. 2002), are not applicable here.

1 Notably, Vail's allegation that Miller, Masto, and Arana conspired to deprive him of 2 his professional license does not challenge the validity of his conviction, and is not Heck-
 3 barred.<sup>4</sup>

4 B. Statute of Limitations

5 Plaintiff argues that his IIED claim and his claim that Defendants conspired to 6 deprive him of his professional license are not Heck barred, because these claims do not 7 necessarily imply the invalidation of his prior sentence. (Dkt. no. 33.) As stated above, 8 the Court disagrees with Plaintiff regarding his IIED claim, which is ancillary to his civil 9 conspiracy claim.

10 Even assuming Plaintiff is correct regarding the IIED claim, this claim is barred by 11 the applicable statute of limitations. "The statute of limitations applicable to an action 12 pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 is the personal injury statute of limitations of the state in 13 which the cause of action arose." Alameda Books, Inc. v. City of Los Angeles, 631 F.3d
 14 1031, 1041 (9th Cir. 2011) cert. denied, 132 S. Ct. 762 (U.S. 2011) and cert. denied, 132
 15 S. Ct. 772 (U.S. 2011). "The applicable statute of limitations for a civil rights action 16 pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 is the general personal-injury statute of limitations in the 17 state where the alleged events occurred." Dubois v. Washoe County Jail, No. 3:12-CV-18 00415, 2013 WL 100940, at *2 (D. Nev. Jan. 7, 2013) (citing Wilson v. Garcia, 471 U.S.
 19 261 (1985)). "In Nevada, the applicable statute of limitations is Nev. Rev. Stat. §
 20 11.190(4)(e), which has a period of limitations of two (2) years." Dubois, 2013 WL
 21 100940, at *2 (citing Perez v. Seevers, 869 F.2d 425, 426 (9th Cir. 1989) (per curiam)).

22 The allegations relating to IIED involve acts that occurred primarily in 2008 and 23 2009. The Complaint alleges the following facts:

- 24
- 25 • Arana investigated Plaintiff for securities law violations using coercive and suggestive interviewing techniques. As a result, Plaintiff was arrested on February 19, 2008.
- 26

27     <sup>4</sup>Because the Court determines that all constitutional claims against Miller and 28 Masto are Heck-barred, the Court does not address Defendants' argument regarding their personal involvement. (See dkt. no. 5 at 3.)

- 1        • Before Plaintiff executed a plea agreement, Arana was pursuing two other 2        investigations involving Plaintiff. Arana interviewed an additional alleged 3        victim on February 2, 2009, and March 13, 2009. Plaintiff alleges that these 4        interviews were conducted in a coercive and suggestive manner, and that Arana delayed submitting the results of the investigation until July 1, 2009, after Plaintiff executed the plea agreement on his first set of charges.
- 5        • On April 15, 2010, Mr. Hafen presented two new felony arrest warrants to Plaintiff's probation officer, which allegedly falsely stated that Plaintiff engaged in criminal activity on or after September 23, 2009.

7              The Complaint was filed on May 29, 2012. None of the operative facts giving rise
8        to the allegations against Arana, Miller, or Masto took place within two years of Plaintiff
9        filing the Complaint.

10          The claim that Miller, Masto, and Arana conspired to make Vail lose his 11        professional license is not barred by the statute of limitations. Plaintiff cites to NRS §
12        11.220, the statute of limitations for civil conspiracy, and claims that the applicable
13        statute is four years, not two years. Plaintiff is correct. Defendants argue that Plaintiff 14        "claims that the civil conspiracy was for the unlawful objectives of inflicting severe 15        emotional distress and violating [Plaintiff's] due process rights," and is therefore 16        wrongfully attempting to extend the two-year statute of limitations applicable to those 17        claims to four years by also alleging conspiracy. (Dkt. no. 21 at 5.) However, it is clear
18        that the conspiracy claim is broader than Defendants assert – for example, at paragraph 19        59, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants "knowingly made false accusations against Plaintiff 20        with the intent of having him wrongfully convicted and having him lose his licensure to sell insurance." (Dkt. no. 1-2 at ¶ 59.) Read as a whole, Plaintiff states a plausible claim 22        that these Defendants not only desired to incarcerate Plaintiff, but also to deprive him of 23        his professional license. (See id. at ¶¶ 53, 59.)

24              C. Failure to State a Claim for Conspiracy to Deprive Plaintiff of his 25        Professional License

26          As discussed, this claim is not barred by Heck or the applicable statute of 27        limitations. Moreover, Defendants do not provide any other reason for this claim to be 28        dismissed in their briefs. Paragraph 53 of Plaintiff's Complaint clearly alleges that

1 “Defendants engaged in the above referenced conduct in order to improperly deprive
 2 Plaintiff of his license to sell insurance, cause him to lose his means to make a living,
 3 and cause him severe emotional distress and other harm.” (Dkt. no. 1-2 at ¶ 53.) As 4 discussed above in part (IV)(B), the civil conspiracy and due process allegations cannot 5 succeed as it relates to conspiracy to cause Plaintiff emotional distress. However, this 6 claim can move forward regarding Defendants’ alleged conspiracy to deprive Plaintiff of 7 his license to sell insurance.

8 V. INSURANCE DEFENDANTS’ MOTION TO DISMISS (DKT. NO. 4)

9 Insurance Defendants argue that the Complaint fails to adequately plead a claim 10 for relief against them. The Court agrees. The Complaint does not meet the 11 requirements of Rule 8(a). In Iqbal, the court held that mere recitals of the elements of a 12 cause of action, supported only by conclusory statements, do not suffice. Id. at 678.
 13 The Complaint here, as it regards the Insurance Defendants, makes several allegations
 14 regarding the Insurance Defendants’ actions. However, the civil conspiracy claim does 15 not name these Defendants, or explain how these Defendants’ actions could lead to a 16 viable conspiracy claim. The allegations concerning these Defendants merely discuss 17 how they informed him his license was being suspended, that Plaintiff disagreed with this 18 decision, that Plaintiff was informed his license was being revoked, and that Plaintiff was 19 denied a hearing on the matter. (Dkt. no. 1-2 at ¶¶ 40-41, 44-48.) These allegations, 20 taken in the light most favorable to Plaintiff, simply do not allege a viable claim for 21 conspiracy.

22 All claims against the Insurance Defendants are accordingly dismissed without 23 prejudice.

24 VI. HAFEN’S MOTION TO DISMISS (DKT. NO. 20)

25 Many of Plaintiff’s claims against Hafen are Heck-barred and/or barred by the 26 applicable statute of limitations, for reasons discussed above regarding Defendants’ 27 Miller, Masto, and Arana’s Motion to Dismiss. These claims are all dismissed against 28 Hafen with prejudice as they were for Defendants Miller, Masto, and Arana.

Hafen was the prosecutor in Vail's case, and oversaw the execution of Vail's plea agreement. Hafen argues that he is absolutely immune from this lawsuit due to his role as prosecutor. Absolute prosecutorial immunity applies to a prosecutor's actions related to his or her role in judicial proceedings. Van de Kamp v. Goldstein, 555 U.S. 335, 341-42 (2009). Absolute immunity does not shield prosecutors from actions unrelated to his or her position as an officer of the Court. Id. at 342. Hafen does not address why prosecutorial immunity applies to Plaintiff's allegation that Hafen conspired to deprive him of his insurance license. Nor does Hafen explain any other reason that this claim should be dismissed. This claim accordingly remains viable.

VII. CONCLUSION

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that Defendants Miller, Masto, and Arana's Motion to Dismiss (dkt. no. 5) is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART as follows:

- The Motion is GRANTED as it relates to Plaintiff's due process and intentional infliction of emotional distress claims. These claims are DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.
- The Motion is DENIED as it relates to Plaintiff's civil conspiracy claim. This claim may proceed only on the allegation that Defendants Miller, Masto, and Arana conspired to deprive Plaintiff of his professional license. For reasons explained herein, the claim may not proceed on any other theories expressed in the Complaint.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Insurance Defendants' Motion to Dismiss (dkt. no. 4) is GRANTED. All claims against these Defendants are DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that Defendant Hafen's Motion to Dismiss (dkt. no. 20) is GRANTED IN PART and DENIED IN PART as follows:

- The Motion is GRANTED as it relates to Plaintiff's due process and intentional infliction of emotional distress claims. These claims are DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

- 1           • The Motion is DENIED as it relates to Plaintiff's civil conspiracy claim. This 2           claim may proceed only on the allegation that Defendant Hafen conspired
3           to deprive Plaintiff of his professional license. For reasons explained 4           herein, the claim may not proceed on any other theories expressed in the 5           Complaint.
